

Important note:

1. BEA Union Investment Asia Pacific Flexi Allocation Fund (the "Fund") seeks to achieve long-term capital growth and income by investing in equity securities or debt securities that are either traded in the Asia Pacific region or issued by companies incorporated in the Asia Pacific region or companies which have significant operations in or derive significant portion of revenue from the Asia Pacific region.
2. The Fund invests in emerging markets and may be subject to higher liquidity and volatility risks.
3. The Fund invests directly in REITs, equities, ETFs and managed funds, and is thus subject to the risks generally associated with such asset classes, including but not limited to liquidity of the asset class, changes in investment sentiment, political environment, economic, business and social conditions in the Asia Pacific region.
4. The Fund may invest in below investment grade or non-rated debt securities including high yield bonds, which are subject to greater credit and liquidity risks than higher-rated securities.
5. The manager may at its discretion make distributions from income and/or capital in respect of the distributing classes of the Fund. Investors should note that the distributions paid out of capital amount to a return or withdrawal of part of the unitholder's original investment or from any capital gains attributable to that original investment. Such distribution may result in an immediate reduction of the net asset value per unit.
6. In terms of currency hedged class units, adverse exchange rate fluctuations between the base currency of the Fund and the class currency of the currency hedged class units may result in a decrease in return and/or loss of capital for unitholders. Over-hedged or under-hedged positions may arise and there can be no assurance that these currency hedged class units will be hedged at all times or that the manager will be successful in employing the hedge.
7. Investors may invest in RMB (Hedged) units. It should be noted that the RMB is currently not a freely convertible currency as it is subject to foreign exchange control policies of the Chinese government. There is also no assurance that the RMB will not be subject to devaluation. Any devaluation of the RMB could adversely affect the value of investors' investments. There is no guarantee that the hedging strategy will be effective and investors may still be subject to the RMB currency exchange risk.
8. The Fund may enter into futures contracts for hedging and investment purposes. Given the leverage effect embedded in futures contracts, the Fund may be exposed to significant losses.
9. Investors should not make an investment decision based solely on this material.

BEA Union Investment Asia Pacific Flexi Allocation Fund

Increased Exposure in Energy and Materials Stocks as Commodity Prices Recover

Highlights:

- 1. Energy stocks perform strongly due to higher oil prices
- 2. Singapore equities outperform ASEAN markets, led by strong banking sector
- 3. The Fund has risen 12.2%¹ in 1 year

Fund Features

- The Fund is an Asia Pacific equity-biased mixed-asset income fund, which invests in a prudent selection of blue-chip stocks with stable earnings and dividend growth potential.
- The Fund captures Asia Pacific blue chips' appreciation potential using a strategy of lower volatility, it employs flexible allocation in Asia Pacific bonds to enhance returns and diversify portfolio risks.

Market Review and Outlook
Equities

- Concerns over U.S.-China trade tensions and rising U.S. treasury yields have led to market volatility in the onshore and offshore China equity market.
- Australia equities performed strongly in April, led by the energy, materials, and health care sectors. The energy sector was boosted by higher oil prices, while the materials sector was supported by the strengthening of aluminium prices following U.S. sanctions on Russia.
- ASEAN markets rebounded in April, with Singapore posting the strongest return. The city-state's outperformance was mainly driven by its three leading banks ahead of their earnings releases.

Bonds

- Despite rising yields, Asian investment grade bonds performed relatively resiliently compared with Asian high yield bonds, given their better credit fundamental and defensive nature under the prevailing volatility of market conditions.
- In terms of Asian high yield bonds, Chinese high yield bonds have performed worse than Indonesian corporate and Indian high yield bonds in April due to re-pricing pressure from new issuances.

Investment Strategy

Equities

- The Fund remains its cautious positions amid continued market volatility and rising bond yields. We expect the offshore China equity market to be supported by liquidity flows from southbound and global investors.
- The Fund continues to hold an overweight position in the ASEAN countries, key investment themes includes energy sector's positive outlook, the recovery of domestic consumption and cyclical plays.

Bonds

- The Fund continues to maintain a bond weighting of between 20% and 30%. The portfolio's duration continued to remain underweight due to the consideration of increased refunding requirements for treasuries and intact rate hike expectations.
